VICTORIAN TREASURY OFFICIAL MS AN NGUYEN RECOGNISED FOR CONTRIBUTION TO INFRASTRUCTURE, FEMALE LEADERSHIP

Victorian Treasury official An Nguyen has been recognised for her professional contribution to major project delivery – and for being a prominent female leader in the sector - at the National Infrastructure Awards convened by Infrastructure Partnerships Australia (IPA) in Sydney tonight.

“An Nguyen is one of the most impressive public sector leaders in the country, guiding some of Australia’s most challenging and expensive major projects,” said IPA Chief Executive Officer Brendan Lyon.

“An has been awarded the Women’s Achievement in Infrastructure Award for 2017 because she has shaped every major Victorian project in recent memory.

“An is leading the $1.8 billion Victorian Outer Suburban Roads PPP, which is at the cutting edge of global models to make transport networks better and more efficient and itself recognised in tonight’s awards.

“An is also working across the massive Western Distributor and City Tulla Widening projects and other major social, utility and economic projects.

“In more than a decade with Victorian Treasury, An has developed an outstanding reputation for her commercial acumen, innovative thinking and professionalism.

“The national infrastructure sector congratulates An on being recognised by her peers through the 2017 Women’s Achievement in Infrastructure Award.”
