

ANALYST AT INFRASTRUCTURE THINK TANK

About Infrastructure Partnerships Australia:

Infrastructure Partnerships Australia is an independent think tank and peak industry body with members across the public and private sectors. Infrastructure Partnerships Australia was created to drive purposeful reform in infrastructure and efficient public services, with the aim of achieving the best possible economic and social success for Australia.

We consider infrastructure issues spanning transport, utilities and social infrastructure (such as social housing, health, education and justice).

Infrastructure Partnerships Australia is expanding its respected policy and research team. The policy team underpins our position as the nation's infrastructure think tank and peak industry body; developing industry-leading public policy and advancing the infrastructure reform agenda directly with policymakers and industry practitioners.

The role:

We are recruiting for an Analyst within Infrastructure Partnerships Australia's policy team. As an Analyst you will take a central role in identifying, developing and delivering high quality infrastructure policy and research.

You will also have unrivalled opportunities to develop and maintain effective relationships with senior business and public sector leaders, including the members of our Advisory Board.

Key responsibilities:

- conduct detailed and well-evidenced research and analysis on a broad range of policy issues across the transport, utilities and social sectors
- assist with the management of the Australia & New Zealand Infrastructure Pipeline website
- research and write policy documents, including major reports, briefing notes and submissions
- engage with senior executives from the public and private sectors on policy and regulatory matters
- build and maintain strong relationships across Federal and state governments and the private sector, and
- think strategically about the role Infrastructure Partnerships Australia can play in the infrastructure policy debate.

About you:

The policy team at Infrastructure Partnerships Australia comprises a mixture of economists, lawyers, anthropologists, engineers and government relations experts. So, the ideal candidate need not be from any specific background, you might be:

- a consultant looking for more exposure to decision makers and an end to filling out time sheets on short term projects

- you might have experience in a government agency, but want to get out from behind your desk and flex your strategic thinking skills in a more varied role, or
- a recent graduate, looking for a platform to transform academic rigour into real world outcomes.

Whatever your background we expect you to be intellectually curious, personable and to understand that communicating and implementing ideas is just as important as coming up with them.

Desired attributes:

- Up to four years of experience in a relevant field
- tertiary qualifications in an analytical discipline (economics, commerce, engineering, etc)
- advanced written and oral communication skills exposure to the transport, utilities or social infrastructure sectors
- experience compiling, analysing and interpreting economic and statistical data
- a sound understanding of economic and financial principles
- an understanding of public policy development and political processes at the state and Federal level of government, and
- an ability to manage multiple priorities and projects, with a particular capacity to differentiate between the immediate and the important.

Terms & Conditions:

- Sydney CBD based position
- interstate travel and working outside normal hours may be required
- attractive remuneration commensurate with experience
- opportunities for career development
- annual leave entitlement is 20 days per annum accrued on a pro-rata basis, and
- personal leave – ten (10) days per annum (this includes sick leave and carers leave).
